The Newest Creations In Ladies' Hosiery

The productions in American hosiery shows us there are few things that cannot be produced in this country as well as in foreign countries. The only possible improvement in plain silk stockings was in the variety of color, and now nearly any shade can be matched without trouble.

The woman who desires to be correct from head to heel will find many oddities have been introduced. Changeable silk, drop stitch, clocks, stripes, plaids and omnipresent dots are all identified with this season's dictates. Changeable stockings have the black or color beginning at the foot and fading into white at the top.

Narrow black and white stripes arranged up and down are shown in other models. Another design has two-inch white, black and white rings around the legs. Mosaic effects composed of groups of narrow stripes running in different directions have answered to the call for something unusual.

To the School Patrons of Oklahoma:

In practically every district in the state arrangements have been made for the opening of school. Nearly 8,000 of the 13,000 teachers employed have been attending summer normals this year. In many counties schools will open for longer terms than ever. New equipment has been placed in a number of schools. Many libraries have been added and the rural social center movement and consolidated schools have been organized. For these improvements we are indeed thankful, and we appreciate the influence which the press has had in this new plan of breaking away from the old idea and making our school system a real, live, vital business. We are urging that more business be put into school affairs even if it becomes necessary to eliminate some of the professional traditions and theories. It has been our plan to use every means available to make the people as a whole appreciate the opportunities and possibilities of the rural school.

There is one condition that we feel will be neglected at this time. Through the agency of the press I wish to emphasize the importance of suitable drinking water. We have just passed through an unusually hot summer. It has been four or five months since the wells and sources of water have been used in many instances. Only a few cases of sickness would cause more expense to the state than the cost of cleaning all of the wells. In talking with the commissioner of health two years ago, I learned from statistics in his department that a majority of the cases of scarlet fever, diphtheria, smallpox, typhoid, meningitis, chicken pox and many other diseases started in communities about the time or soon after the opening of school; and his conclusions were that this unusual number of contagious diseases was caused by the failure to properly prepare the school buildings for school by fumigation or airing and by neglect of the water supply. Therefore, I make a special request at this time for the people in the several communities in this state to join with the teachers and school board members in an effort to put the school buildings and grounds in a sanitary condition before the opening of the schools and to adopt all possible precautions to insure an abundant supply of pure water for the pupils. It is as much the duty of the district to safeguard the health of the child as it is to provide school facilities for him.

Sincerely,

R. H. WILSON,

State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Clever Originals In Furdom

By Adele Mendel

The fur designers have created something of a sensation in the manner in which they have used pelts this fall. Furs are really a good investment, not only for their sheer beauty and warmth giving qualities, but if one is the proud possessor of a luxurious fur, it is apt to increase even in value, while the wearer is deriving the benefits thereof.

Neck pieces are not merely neck pieces, but they are throws reaching to the bottom of the skirt and any width which one can carry with ease. Capes, pelerines, victrolines, broad animal scarfs with heads and tails and draped scarfs. Foxes probably always come first, as their long hair is becoming to so many women. Under the category of foxes are taupe, black, white, Sitka, battleship gray, pearl, slate, blue, red, silver, Isabella, cross, Klondyke and Kamchatka. All of these furs are developed in this season's models, frequently in combination with other furs.

Beaver, raccoon, dyed lynx, skunk, Kolonski, Fischer, mole, chinchilla and squirrel are the predominating pelts used.

Very dark mink, which has been in exile for some time, again has come to the front. Long stoles of mink trimmed with tails are worn with one end thrown over the other over the left shoulder.

From a modish standpoint an oblong scarf of black fox with a border of ermine and a tie of black satin, finished with fringe, is sure to be a pleasing adjunct to the fur array.

Motorically Speaking.

"I ran across an old friend last week."
"That so? Did you hurt him?"
"Well, he seemed rather sore about something."—Panther.
